1 In 12, your Honor just tentatively ruled that there
2 should be no evidence of the closing of the criminal 3 investigation without indicting Toshiba. Okay. So let's 4 consider that issue in context here. Right? So we've got two 5 sets of plaintiffs who are going to be waving around criminal 6 guilty pleas, and at least one conviction, I guess, and the 7 convictions of the individuals from AUO, as well. So the 8 jury's going to be inundated with information about guilty
9 pleas and convictions.

10 THE COURT: Will there be one about Toshiba?

11 MR. CURRAN: No.

12 THE COURT: No.

13 MR. CURRAN: Okay, but your Honor, if they're not 14 told -- if the jury's not told that there was an investigation
15 with no resulting criminal prosecution of Toshiba, they may -- 16 they may conclude otherwise. They may conclude: Oh, everybody 17 in the industry had a guilty plea or a conviction; therefore,
18 Toshiba must have. What we want to avoid --

19 THE COURT: Well, surely, you will know how to let 20 them know that's not true.

21 MR. CURRAN: That's the point, your Honor. I want 22 the ability to do that. That's all I'm asking for.

23 THE COURT: I think there's nothing the matter with 24 your folks saying we weren't indicted.

25 MR. CURRAN: Okay.
